Teachers Attend Conference

East Jordan School was represented at a Curriculum Planning Conference at the Higgin's Lake Conservation Camp last week end by Mrs. Sadie Liskum, Miss Elizabeth Dhaseleer, Frank Malone.

Approximately 50 teachers from various schools of the Northern Michigan area and staff members from Central Michigan College of Education and the State Department of Public Instruction met for the purpose of discussing administrative and organizational problems and means of helping the teachers and schools made adjustments for individual differences to best meet the needs of the students and the community.

The group concluded that the curriculum should provide for the social living of the child as well as the development of skills. Also that in most cases students who have shown social growth should be promoted with their group regardless of academic achievement. It was stated that more people lose their jobs through lack of social adjustment than through lack of skill in their work.

East Jordan vs. Boyne City

LOCALS TRIUMPHANT IN 7-6 GAME THERE

East Jordan upset favored Boyne City Ramblers by a 7-6 margin in a game played at Boyne City last Friday. The victory boosted the Red Devils into a tie for first place in the Northern Division.

"Red" Evans pitched another good game allowing but four hits, two of which were of the scratch variety. "Red" was in hot water several times during the game but applied pressure when there were runners on base. He struck out the last three batters to face him.

East Jordan led from the first inning when Bryon Boring drove a clean single to left field to score Evans who had got on first on a fielder's choice and had advanced to second on a stolen base. The big inning for the Red Devils was the first of the sixth when they banged out five hits off pitcher Saffran to score four runs.

The boys deserve a lot of credit for this game as it was wet and cold, but they came through with brilliant play in the field and at bat.

East Jordan plays Harbor Springs Thursday and Pellston Friday. Both games are here and start at 3:00 p. m.

Benson Service Employees Honored By Chrysler Corporation

Two employees of Benson's Hi-Speed Service were honored by Chrysler Corporation this week for the successful completion of the first 12 sessions of a continuous course in factory-approved methods of servicing cars and trucks.

The mechanics received certificates from the DeSoto-Plymouth home offices marking the completion of a year of participation in the school conducted here as part of the Chrysler Corporation Master Technicians' Service Plan.

Certificates were awarded to: John B. Brennan and Thos. A. Breakey. Both men are life long residents of East Jordan. Brennan has been with Benson's since they opened in 1942 and Breakey since 1947.

Planning of the program, which involves over 50,000 mechanics through out the country, included counseling with selected dealer service managers and mechanics. The training course is built around a series of instructional kits, one of which Benson's Service received every month from the DeSoto-Plymouth home offices. Each kit is devoted to a "tell, show, and do" presentation of a basic service problem selected from surveys of dealer requests for information. For the "tell" part of the training session, the first item in the kit is a 20-minute sound slide film outlining basic principals of an automoblie service operation, how to recognize the problem and how to make the necessary corrections. In the "show" part of the session, large blow-up charts and full information as to procedure for the instructor is supplied, together with a list of parts and tools required for a demonstration. The mechanic is then allowed to perform the service operation himself, representating the "do" part of the session. Finally, a reference book summarizing the entire subject is supplied for the mechanic's personal reference.

At the end of each service session, the mechanic checks his progress by means of a series of questions. Questionaires, when filled out, are returned to the factory for review and grading and become a permanent record at the factory, acting as a basis for future awards of certificates to the dealer and mechanic.

AN APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all those who sent cards, flowers, etc., during my illness at the Charlevoix Hospital.

Second Annual Fiesta To Be Held This Saturday

East Jordan citizens are celebrating their Second Annual Fiesta May 14th.

Merchants have been decorating store windows in keeping with the theme, and all indications point to an even larger celebration than was witnessed at the 1948 Fiesta.

Designed to bring adults and children together for a gay celebration, the Fiesta will be climaxed on Saturday, May 14th, with a full afternoon and evening program.

A colorful parade of adults, school children, decorated vehicles, horseback riders is scheduled for 4 p. m. and everyone who cares to enter is welcome.

At 6:00 p. m. the Fiesta program will begin in the Auditorium of the High School which will be transformen into a gay Mexican street scene and arena. Following a Mexican-style cafeteria supper, a full evening's program is planned which will include mock bull fights, a "Battle of the Flowers," a Mexican Operetta, dancing and entertainment.

Chairmen of Committees working on the Fiesta include: Mrs. Glenda Maxwell, Food Preparation; Mrs. Sadie Liskum, Concessions; Mrs. Alta Drapeau, Stage Entertainment; Theodore Malpass, Arena Program; Doris Huckle, Publicity; Anna Brock, Jr. Parade Committee; Eldeva Gokee and Geo. Secord, King and Queen Chaperones.

Members of the Court are: Barbara Lehrbass, Elna Cutler, Ruth Bowen, Donald Whiteford, Harry Webster and Edward Whitney.

Rural Tele-news

WHO is your telephone company?—Ever stop to think who installs your telephone . . . who makes repairs to your line when they're needed . . . who at the switchboard handles calls to and from your home . . . who works in your local telephone business office? They're folks just like yourself. They may even be friends and neighbors of yours. And they're interested in providing you with friendly and courteous telephone service at all times.

IT'S NEWS TO YOU!—A lot of the items you read in your newspaper come in by telephone, or the paper's staff obtains them by telephone. Teletypewriter machines operating over telephone lines send news all over the country from the press associations. Even many of the pictures appearing in newspapers are transmitted over telephone lines by wirephoto.

NEIGHBORLY SHARING LETS YOU REACH THE VET IN A HURRY—When you have an emergency, such as a horse suddenly taken sick, you want to reach the veterinary in a hurry. It means a lot to be able to put a telephone call through right away. Courteous sharing of rural lines makes everyone's service good. Spacing out calls . . . giving up the line when others have emergency calls to make . . . always being careful to hang up the receiver after each call . . . are neighborly ways of sharing the line.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U.S. Seeks to Avoid Chinese War As Warships Flee Shanghai Trap; Reds Talk of Berlin Blockade End

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BOUND FOR "HOT SPOT!" . . . American marines wave from the U.S.S. St. Paul as they embark for trouble spots in China. The St. Paul, heavy cruiser, was one of the two warships leaving for China and which carried much larger complements of marines than normal.

The United States was showing the world that it planned no maneuvers which might create the situation for an "incident" leading to involvement in the Chinese war.

To the surprise of practically everyone, particularly the 2,500 Americans in Shanghai, the entire U. S. fleet fled suddenly from Shanghai, evidently having abandoned then current plans for evacuation of American nationals from the scene.

THE GOVERNMENT was sending some marines to Chinese troubled spots, but these were to do only sentry duty.

United States action came despite admittedly great provocation. The Chinese Communists, in their triumphant surge across China to Shanghai, had invaded the home of U. S. Envoy J. Leighton Stuart in Nanking and hinted he was to be held in custody.

Meanwhile, the Chinese Reds broadcast a demand for American and British officials to evacuate all their "aggressive forces" from China.

Already British warships had been fired upon and it was assumed American fleet elements had fled Shanghai in order to avoid any such predicament as was experienced by the British vessels.

THE COMMUNIST threat to Shanghai was increasing hourly and despite Nationalist decision to battle to the end, it appeared the city's plight was hopeless.

Communist victory in China would put all the western nations in a ticklish position. For, with the Reds in control of all China, those who opposed communism would be helpless and hopeless in event of a western-powers move to apply economic sanctions, if such a step should be taken. If this procedure were not to be followed, the western powers would be put in the paradoxical position of recognizing and trading with proponents of an ideology with which they were struggling in a cold war.

AUTO LABOR:

Flareup Looms

The nation's coal mines didn't present the only likely flareup in labor-employe relations as bargaining time rolled around in various industries. Those who were in position to know held the opinion that it was an "uneasy peace" which hung over the automobile industry.

UNION FLAREUPS had been quelled at the Packard and Ford motor companies and a temporary work stoppage had halted body production at the Briggs manufacturing company's plant.

The future of labor relations in the industry was as confused as it was uneasy. Recent action by manufacturers in cutting prices of automobiles had brought accusations from labor that the reductions were only "token" cuts, and did not represent a fair action on the part of the manufacturers.

However, with prices of other commodities beginning to spiral downward and easement of installment buying widened, it began to appear that labor would be in a vulnerable position by the time contract-signing time rolled around.

WHILE there was little in the press about the intentions of dynamic Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers' union, there was slight doubt that the fiery redhead would be in there pitching for his union members when the time came to sit down at the bargaining table.

Would labor attempt to overreach itself in bargaining or would it recognize the trend of the times and be content to hold present gains? That was the question whose answer would be anxiously awaited by the citizen who is always in the middle in such struggles—the average American consumer.

BERLIN:

Reds Want Talk

If the United States and Britain looked with a jaundiced eye on Russia's public offer to lift the Berlin blockade, it was thoroughly understandable. Too often the Soviets have held out the olive branch or made apparent overtures that never materialized to ease the crisis the Reds may have been developing at that time.

HOWEVER, the western powers had virtually accepted the Russian proposal to lift the Berlin blockade in exchange for a four-power conference on Germany. But it was made very plain that acceptance was based on the condition that Russia had no secret strings attached to the offer.

A U. S. state department official was quoted as saying that if Moscow's policy actually stands as it was reported in a dispatch by Tass, Russian news agency, the "way appears clear for the lifting of the blockade and a meeting of the council of foreign ministers."

At the same time, however, it was learned that the Russians were told that the United States, Britain and France do not intend to delay their plans for unifying western Germany and creating a German government, probably by July 15.

SOME TOP officials believed the Russian offer's real purpose was to delay this action, and indicated that if this were the case it was most uncertain whether a real and final agreement on the Berlin blockade would be reached any time in the near future.

The Russian proposal was construed as suggesting three concrete means for reducing international tension. These were outlined as (1) proposal for a meeting of the council of foreign ministers on the subject of Germany; (2) lifting the Berlin restrictions as soon as a meeting date was fixed for that meeting, and (3) direct negotiations between Premier Stalin and President Truman on basic conflicts beween the United States and the Soviet union.

FARM PROGRAM:

Who's Confused?

The administration's bold new farm program was becoming so muddled that even its proponents seemed to be less than certain of just what its purpose is, to say nothing of how much it will cost.

When the program was first presented, the general impression generated by its proponents was that it was a duality of beneficence, as it were—a device that would keep up the price of farm products while at the same time resulting in less cost to the consumer.

TO CRITICS who callously pointed out that it would require tax money to finance such a program and that both farmers and consumers would have to pay those taxes, the plan's advocates answered that such persons simply didn't understand the aims of the proposal.

Then along came Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan with a statement that indicated he didn't quite understand it either, or if he did, it was a new conception. Now, the secretary was saying, the plan wasn't meant as a consumer subsidy at all. No indeed, it was a farm price support measure, aimed at giving the farmer a "fair return" on his investment and his labor.

CREDIT CONTROLS:

Are Eased Again

Developments were shoving President Truman's demands for price control power further and further into the realm of absurdity.

THE FEDERAL reserve board, after looking the situation over, decided that installment buying controls could be lowered again safely. And this it did. It set out that on household appliances such as refrigerators, radios, electric washers, etc., the down payment would have to be only 10 per cent of the cost of the item, instead of the previous 15 per cent. On automobiles, the down payment remained at 30 per cent; but on autos and household appliances, too, the time of payment was extended from 21 to 24 months.

THIS ACTION brought both commendation and criticism. That element in the federal government which would recoup all the wartime controls for the President, was aghast at the action, terming it dangerous. Others who had watched prices continue their downward spiral—especially merchants who were facing a buyers' market and difficulty in moving goods off sales floors—saw the action as a boon to business.

SULLIVAN:

Quits Navy Post

There was little else that John L. Sullivan, secretary of the navy, could have done but resign after the "multi-million dollar reprimand" he received from Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

SULLIVAN, as navy chief, had gone ahead with plans to construct the 65,000-ton U. S. aircraft supercarrier, the United States, despite lack of congressional authorization for the project.

It was no particular secret that abandonment of the carrier and Sullivan's resignation were all a continuing part of the apparently hopeless fight to unify the nation's armed forces. The congressional act calling for such a step has never been carried out, and the navy's attempt to go ahead with building the huge carrier without any legal authority was another example of high-handed service tactics that have tended to make unification appear impossible of realization.

DEFENSE SECRETARY Johnson, commenting on Sullivan's resignation, said, "I regret very much that my old friend and colleague . . . has joined the aircraft carrier issue on personal grounds and I believe that he too will soon regret his action of today."

DAIRYMEN:

Will Push Sales

According to the experts, milk prices would be tumbling again this summer, but American dairymen wouldn't be cheering about it.

In fact, dairymen were getting set to launch a 1.5 million-dollar campaign to promote the sale of dairy products and, at the same time, wage war on oleomargarine.

Most dairy leaders were said to believe that a promotional campaign to boost consumption was the only way to check a nose-dive in milk and butter prices that has caught producers with their income down and their costs up.

In little more than seven months, according to a federal dairy specialist, dairy prices had dropped 33 per cent. Butter, which not long ago was at almost prohibitive prices, had dipped to the government support level. Milk prices also had been falling off a cent or two at a time on retail markets.

The federal specialist pointed out that domestic unemployment has contributed to the drop in consumption of dairy products.

Grown Up

Shirley Temple, one-time "Little Miss Marker" of movie fame, now is fully grown up. She recently celebrated her 21st birthday anniversary. The dimpled child screen star of more than a decade ago is the mother of a year-old daughter.

FROZEN FROG:

May Yet Jump

Dr. D. L. Albasio, of Angels Camp, Calif., was keeping his entry in the annual frog jumping contest on ice—literally speaking. He has to, because his frog, Lazarus, has been frozen stiff for an estimated 1,200 years.

The physician said he found his prehistoric frog frozen deep in the ice of Dana glacier in Yosemite national park and felt confident his entry would be able to jump.

SPRING COMES TO ENGLAND

Nature Gives Weird Vent to Vernal Urge

It was spring in England, and whimsey and fantasy were all around.

For instance, cows got a license to kiss. A lovelorn cat set fire to a house. A thief, no doubt actuated by the season, stole two dozen love birds. A swan, winging majestically up the Thames in search of a mate, plumped on a bridge at rush hour and piled up traffic for a mile. Everything, it seemed, was in a tizzy.

The Denham town council gave cows the kissing license. It ruled that it's all right for them to nuzzle over the fence, even if one pasture is certified tuberculosis-free and the other isn't.

A Mikado pheasant, which usually lays eggs only in its native habitat in Formosa, laid six eggs.

"Funniest thing! I keep thinking I see elephants!"

Dan: "You do—y'see, I'm gonna parade these elephants around town, carrying an important message to folks. This first baby, here, carries a great big 'LENNOX' sign. It's the most famous name there is in home heating! And the second elephant sign'll say, 'World's Largest.'"

Ted: "Sounds impressive!"

Dan: "Sure—there's no company more prominent in its field; they have over 5,000 experienced dealers like me all over America!"

Ted: "And what'll the other two elephants have to say?"

Dan: "Their signs'll read, 'Manufacturers and Engineers of Warm Air Heating Systems.' Those first three words show why Lennox systems are so efficient; they're built by experts!"

Ted: "And the last part tells me there're lots of Lennox systems!"

Dan: "Dozens and dozens of 'em in sizes and types for gas, oil, and coal! What d' you think of my idea?"

Ted: "Super-colossal, Dan! And here's some more advice: better sign me up for a Lennox System right now."

THE BOSTON TEA PARTY

The King put a tax on tea. It was brought to Boston, Charleston and Baltimore from the East. Many of the people decided to go without tea rather than give the King the tax money.

One night in Boston the children were scared nearly out of their wits. They heard yells outside and looking out,, saw what they thought to be a great crowd of Indians dashing down the street. In their hands were clubs and tomahawks. But the "Mohawk Indians" were only men of Boston. They were looking for the tea. The tea was on the ships in the harbor. Some people of Boston would not allow the tea to be taken off the boat. Something had to be done so the Mohawk Tea Party was planned. They rowed boats out to the ship. Three hundred forty chests of tea were slowly settling into the waters of Boston Harbor.

The King was very angry but of course he could not find any of the "Indians" to punish. Instead he got ready to punish the town of Boston. —Judy Lilak.

He's got an open mind—he's got holes in his head.

Start Early Weed Control With 2, 4-D

While your lawn is getting a good start this spring, don't lea the weeds do the same thing. Dr. Buford H. Grigsby, weed control specialist in the Michigan State College botany department, advises spraying lawns with 2,4-D for weed control.

,When the weather is generally warm is a good time to make a thorough application of the spray. Young weedlings will be susceptible to the spray.

Although spraying with 2,4-D will not kill crab grass, it may reduce the stand.

A few words of advice include following manufacturers' directions, avoiding spray drift into into shrubbery and flowering plants, thoroughly washing sprayer and hose after use, and not spraying young seedlings of grass.

How can you tell the Geese from the Ganders ... they all look alike?

We don't bother about it ... we just put them all together and let them figure it out for themselves!

Blessing of the Blossoms To Be Held Sunday, May 15th.

The Blessings of The Blossoms on Sunday, May 15, will find the cherry orchards of the Grand Traverse Bay Region at the peak of their bloom, local orchardists say, after cocking an experienced weather eye at the sky.

The million red tart cherry trees will bloom ten days earlier than normal this spring because of abnormal early May temperatures, they say.

The Blessing of the Blossoms is a transplanted old world religious ceremony held in the orchards during the height of the blooming season in which the clergy of the region join with the orchardists and thousands of tourists to conduct a religious ceremony asking Divine blessing on the orchard-swept hills.

Inaugurated in 1924, the ceremony has been conducted each May since that time until now the cherry growers insist that it be held each year.

It is dramatic and colorful as the growers, their heads uncovered, stand reverently during the blessing ceremony, their entire income for the year depending upon what happens to the blossoms hanging so heavily on the trees.

Hundreds of middlewest residents have chosen the Blessing of The Blossoms as an excuse to come and drive down the blomming orchard aisles of the world's greatest cherry pie producing center.

Results of First Month State Wide Brakes and Light Check

At the end of the first month of the state-wide Brake and Light Check Program, reports from 120 law enforcement agencies show that 66,820 traffic violators have been stopped. 1 out of 13 of these had unsafe brakes, 1 out of 3 had one headlight out, 1 out of 25 had two headlights out, 1 out of 6 had no tail light, and 1 out of 13 had other defects, according to Chief Harry Simmons. Reports from departments indicate that motorists are being most cooperative in having their unsafe equipment repaired when it is called to their attention, the Chief said.

In the city of East Jordan, 12 motorists were stopped for traffic violations last week. 1 defective brake was found, and 7 defective lights were discovered. This brings the total of defective brakes and lights found during the first month of the accident prevention program to 61, Chief Harry Simmons added. He urged all motorists to take their cars to their regular serviceman for a thorough check-up and not wait for a law enforcement officer to stop them and call the matter to their attention.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How Would You Say It?

Curley Lawson's cousin from back East and a few of us got talking when he was here visiting, and I couldn't help noticing how different he said things.

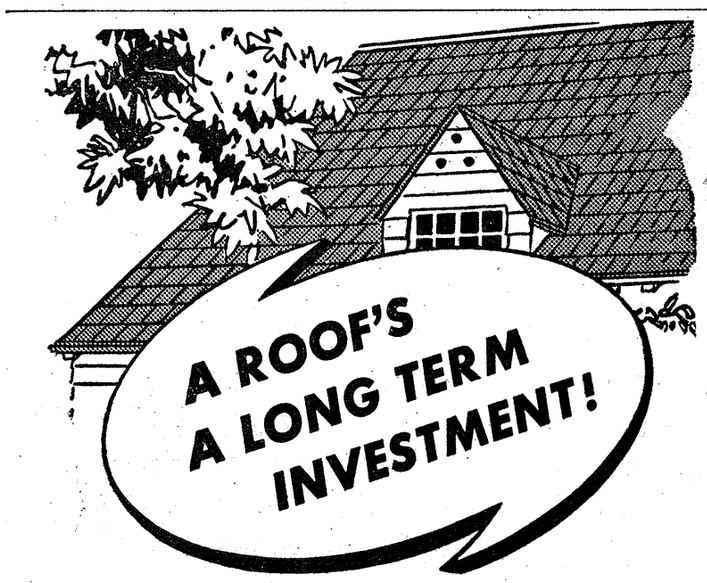

For instance, he said, "Lifting that 200-pound bag of cement almost killed me." "You mean sack of cement?" asks Curley. (That's the way we'd say it.) "No," interrupts young Elliott who'd spent a lot of time down South, "He means a 'poke of see-ment.'"

It was good for a chuckle, anyway. Bag, sack or poke—we knew what he was trying to say. It just depends on where you are in the U. S., which way sounds right.

From where I sit, whenever we criticize someone for sounding funny to us, we ought to think how we sound to them. It's the same as choosing your liquid refreshment. I'm accustomed to a moderate glass of beer—you may like ginger ale—but who's to say the other's wrong? I'd say we're both right!
